Spy Audio Pen

SPYPENAUDIO

Take notes or record conversations with this discreet ballpoint pen digital voice recorder.

This audio recording device is cleverly disguised to be virtually indistinguishable from a normal - although classy looking - ballpoint pen.

It's ideal for students or secretaries who want to make handwritten notes, but also take dictation too. However, it can also be used covertly to record conversations when legal and appropriate to do so. Either clip it to your shirt pocket or jacket to document your meetings, or leave it on a desk, in a pen pot, or anywhere else that it would be normal to find a pen.

If left for remote covert recording, a special feature allows it to remain dormant until a sound is detected, and then it will switch on automatically and begin recording.

Playback is either via headphones which can be plugged directly into a hidden socket, and come complete with a remote control unit or alternatively, audio files can be transferred to a PC using a special USB cable, and then stored, emailed, uploaded or played back just like an MP3 file.

With an internal rechargeable battery that can provide up to 12 hours recording on a single charge, this is an exceptionally useful audio recording device, whether used openly or inconspicuously.
